We look forward to your participation in the ASCIA 2018 conference, the 29th annual conference of the Australasian Society of Clinical Immunology and Allergy (ASCIA), at the National Convention Centre in Canberra.

The ASCIA 2018 Conference runs for 3 days, from Wednesday 5 to Friday 7 September 2018 and includes concurrent sessions for Nurses and Medical Associate ASCIA members on Friday 7 September.

The following events are being held in conjunction with the ASCIA 2018 conference:

- Centre for Food and Allergy Research (CFAR) Symposium 2018 on Tuesday 4 September
- ASCIA Autoimmunity Update on Saturday 8 September
- ASCIA GP Allergy Update on Saturday 8 September
- ASCIA-DAA Dietitians Course on Friday 7 and Saturday 8 September

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the following international speakers for their involvement in the conference:

- Prof Carlos Camargo (USA)
- Prof Marc Riedl (USA)
- A/Prof David Fleischer (USA)
- Prof Jonathan Spergel (USA)
- Prof David Jayne (UK)
- Dr Gulbu Uzel (USA)

Prof Antonella Muraro was unfortunately unable to travel. We thank A/Prof David Fleischer for agreeing to present at in the Food Allergy Plenary and Prof Dianne Campbell for presenting in the CFAR Symposium.

There are also more than 80 speakers and chairs from Australasia, and we expect over 500 registrations for this conference and events held in conjunction with the conference.

ASCIA annual conferences provide an international standard of continuing professional development and an opportunity to interact with colleagues working in these areas. ASCIA conferences are therefore a highlight of the year for ASCIA members and other health professionals with an interest in allergy and clinical immunology.

If you have time pre or post conference, visit <https://visitcanberra.com.au/> for information on what to see and do in and around Canberra.

We look forward to your participation in this conference.

INFORMATION (A-Z)

Abstracts

Abstracts

Over 100 abstracts have been submitted and will be presented as:

- ASCIA 2018 posters (displayed from Wednesday 5 to Friday 7 September 2018); or
- ASCIA 2018 research presentations; or
- ASCIA 2018 clinical grand rounds oral presentations (for advanced trainees only)

All accepted abstracts are published in the online Internal Medicine Journal and these can be accessed on the ASCIA website in September:

www.allergy.org.au/conferences/ascia-annual-conference/published-abstracts-ascia

App

To improve your meeting experience, ASCIA is pleased to partner with a content publishing platform, myINTERACT, to provide delegates with a ASCIA 2018 App. This includes access to:

- Interactive conference program with ability to create a personalised schedule and record notes digitally
- Biographies of international speakers
- Searchable abstract and poster library which eliminates the need to take photos during poster sessions
- Participation in polling and ability to ask questions using your mobile device during selected interactive sessions
- Notifications of session changes

Prior to the conference all delegates will receive an email invitation from myINTERACT to connect to the app.

Prior download is encouraged to ensure convenient access to all the information you may need for the conference.

Attendance Certificates

A certificate of attendance is provided to each delegate and is included in the registration envelope, together with a receipt for the registration payment.

Awards and Travel Grants

A limited number of travel grants are awarded (during the conference) to delegates (advanced trainees, dietitians, nurses, students) who reside outside of the region and have submitted an abstract for a poster and/or clinical grand round case presentation. Awards of $1,000 each for selected posters and case presentations will be presented at the end of the conference. After the conference these are listed on the ASCIA website:

www.allergy.org.au/hp/awards-grants/ascia-award-grant-scholarship-recipient

GP ALLERGY UPDATE PROGRAM

Saturday 8 September 2018

Swan Room, National Convention Centre, Canberra, Australia

Convenor: Dr Raymond Mullins

Learning Outcomes:

- Identify appropriate treatment options for respiratory allergy and when referral to a clinical immunology/allergy specialist is required.
- Recognise the link between tick allergy and mammalian meat allergy and how to remove ticks to prevent allergic reactions.
- Identify patients with urticaria and angioedema, when to suspect an allergic origin for symptoms, and treatment options including referral to a specialist.
- Develop an understanding of treatment options for food, drug and venom allergy, management of anaphylaxis and when referral to a clinical immunology/allergy specialist is required.
- Develop an understanding of the principles and implementation of the ASCIA Guidelines for infant feeding and allergy prevention.

Approved for 9 Category 2 QI&CPD points by RACGP

INTERNATIONAL SPEAKERS

Professor Carlos Camargo BA MD MPH DrPH
Professor of Emergency Medicine, Medicine and Epidemiology, Harvard University, and the Conn Chair in Emergency Medicine, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston

Professor Carlos Camargo received his BA from Stanford, MD from UCSF, and MPH from UC Berkeley. In 1990, he moved to Boston for his residency at Massachusetts General Hospital then did fellowship training at Brigham & Women's Hospital, Boston. In 1996, he received his DrPH from Harvard School of Public Health.

In 1996, Professor Camargo founded the Emergency Medicine Network (EMNet), an international research collaboration with almost 250 hospitals, and a mission to advance public health objectives through diverse projects in emergency care. Two major areas of EMNet research are: the MARC program, which focuses on respiratory/allergy emergencies, and health services research in emergency care.

Professor Camargo has also worked for more than 20 years on the role of nutrition in respiratory/allergy disorders, both in cohort studies (including the Nurses' Health Studies) and in large randomized controlled trials (including health effects of vitamin D). He is past president of the American College of Epidemiology, and has worked on several US guidelines including those on diet, asthma, and food allergy. He is an author of more than 900 publications, with over 55,000 citations.

Professor David Jayne FMedSci
Professor of Clinical Autoimmunity, School of Clinical Medicine, University of Cambridge, UK

Professor David Jayne's research group conducts clinical trials and biomarker studies in vasculitis and lupus, including clinical evaluation of newer immunotherapeutics in vasculitis, lupus and immune-mediated renal disease. He is also involved in the co-ordination of international clinical research vasculitis network (EUVAS) and multi-centre randomised controlled trials.

The development of clinical trial methodology, management guidelines and implementation of best clinical practice is Professor Jayne's main interest, as well as the support of genetic, gene expression and biomarker studies. He is the Director of the Vasculitis and Lupus Clinic and President of the European Vasculitis Society.

Professor Antonella Muraro MD
Professor of Food Allergy, University of Padua and Consultant in Allergies at the Paediatric Department, University Hospital of Padua
Head of the Referral Centre for Food Allergy of Veneto Region in North-Eastern Italy

Since 2015 Professor Antonella Muraro has been President of the European Academy of Allergology and Clinical Immunology (EAACI), previously holding the position of Secretary General (2013-2015) and Treasurer (2009-2013). She was Chair of the EAACI Food Allergy and Anaphylaxis Guidelines for Clinical Practice published in 2014, and of the Food Allergy and Anaphylaxis Awareness Campaign run in Europe in 2013-2014. She has also chaired the EAACI Guidelines for Allergen Immunotherapy published in 2017-2018.

Professor Muraro has been lobbying at EU level for raising the awareness of food allergy and allergic diseases, as well as promoting prevention and health of allergic patients. She was a founder of the EAACI patient organisations and is on the medical advisory board of Food Allergy Italia www.foodallergyitalia.org

Professor Muraro's main research initiatives include evaluating new protocols for food allergy immunotherapy, anaphylaxis surveillance programs, evaluating markers for identification of subjects at risk of anaphylaxis and characterization of major immunological determinants responsible for food allergy. She is an author of more 200 papers in peer-reviewed journals and book chapters.

Professor Marc Riedl MD MS
Professor of Medicine and Clinical Director, US HAE Angioedema Center, and Training Program Director for Allergy-Immunology, University of California, San Diego

Professor Marc Riedl received his medical degree from the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine, completed his Internal Medicine residency at Barnes-Jewish Hospital of Washington University in St. Louis, and a Clinical Immunology and Allergy fellowship at UCLA. He received a Master of Science degree in Clinical Research from UCLA and holds board certifications in Allergy-Immunology and Clinical Pharmacology.

Professor Riedl serves on numerous editorial boards and scientific committees, as well as appointed expert panels for the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the National Institutes for Health (NIH). He also directs an active clinical research program at UCSD focused on angioedema and immunodeficiency conditions.

Professor Jonathan Spergel MD PhD
Professor of Pediatrics, University of Pennsylvania
School of Medicine and Chief of the Allergy Section,
Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. Stuart Starr
Endowed Chair of Pediatrics and Director of Center for Eosinophilic Diseases.

Professor Jonathan Spergel received his medical and graduate education at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine and completed his pediatric residency at Yale-New Haven Hospital. His clinical and post-graduate research training in Allergy and Immunology were completed at Children's Hospital, Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA.

Professor Spergel is Board Certified in Pediatrics and Allergy and Immunology. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Allergy Asthma and Immunology (AAAAI), American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology (ACAAI), American Association of Pediatrics, and Philadelphia College of Physicians. He has served and chaired national and international committees on food allergy, atopic dermatitis and eosinophilic esophagitis.

Professor Spergel is the principal investigator for multiple studies in the fields of atopic dermatitis, eosinophilic esophagitis and food allergies. He has published over 160 articles as well as speaking nationally and internationally in these fields. His current research focuses on both clinical (desensitization and tolerance) and translational research in eosinophilic esophagitis and food allergy including fibrosis, regulatory T cells, microbiome and genetic pathways. His research is funded by FARE, DBV Technology, NIH, PCORI and EATS foundation.

Dr Gulbu Uzel MD
Fellow National Institutes of Health, USA and private clinical practice in Lansdowne, Virginia, USA, specializing in rheumatology and clinical and laboratory immunology.

Dr Gulbu Uzel studied medicine at the Faculty of Medicine Ankara University and completed her pediatric residency at Sinai Hospital, Baltimore. She joined the Allergy and Immunology Fellowship Program at the National Institutes of Health (NIH). During her fellowship training, she carried out basic and clinical immunology research at one of the most reputable immunology laboratories studying host defense defects. Dr Uzel led clinical trials including Evaluation of the Immune Response to Vaccines in Primary Immune Disorders and the Genetic Analysis of Immune Disorders. She continued her postdoctoral studies at the Human Genome Institute and became part of the lab that pioneered newborn screening of Severe Combined Immunodeficiency (SCID) in the USA.

BASTEN ORATOR

Dr Raymond Mullins MBBS (Hons1) PhD
FRACP FRCPA
Consultant Physician, Immunology and Allergy, Canberra

Dr Mullins has worked as a consultant physician in clinical immunology and allergy (FRACP, FRCPA) in private practice in Canberra since 1995, with previous doctoral and postdoctoral research on mycobacterial and autoimmune thyroid disease. He has studied and published on the epidemiology of food allergy and anaphylaxis in Australia, tracking increasing incidence over the last 20 years, and on the potential role of socio-economic factors and vitamin D as possible contributing factors. He has filled various roles in ASCIA over the last 20 years including as Past President, and at various times has chaired the Clinical Practice, Education and Anaphylaxis committees and AIFA, the Allergy and Immunology Foundation of Australasia.
